Members of the Royal Canadian Legion colour party dip their flags in honour of their fallen comrades during a memorial service Sunday in Minden. The Legionnaires had intended to hold their service at the County Cairn but inclement weather made it necessary to hold the ceremonies at Minden Curling Club. Drums from the Legion's pipe band were used to form a ceremonial altar in the centre of the room.

Police troubled by break-ins

According to the Community Services Officer with the Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, the crime of break, enter and theft is one of the most perplexing with which the local force has to deal.

Constable Gary Chapman noted that the detachment has a clearance rate of 46% (in 1983) in solving break-ins, but that has not deterred would be thieves.

"The most common type of break and enters occur in semi-isolated areas where criminals feel the chance of detection is slim" Chapman said. He suggested that those individuals living in cottage areas on a year-round basis, or who visit their cottage during the off-season, could assist the police by noting licence numbers and vehicle descriptions of any suspicious cars in the area.

The constable noted that the crime of break and enter is considered so serious that federal authorities have set as a maximum sentence, life imprisonment, for those convicted of the act.

Break-ins often leave the victims shaken, Chapman points out. "Some feel a personal indignity has been committed when their house has been entered," he commented. "Some never again feel the sense of security they once felt in their own home."

Chapman noted that often the damage done to gain access to a home is greater than the value of the property stolen.

Study outlines flood limits

Residents along the Gull River in Minden got their first look at the results of a hazard land study Thursday evening. While the map indicating the area of potential flooding was much what the residents had expected, the extent of the hazard land area was not as wide as some had earlier feared.

Details of the study were presented by Robert Lehman, the consultant hired by the municipality to assist in the preparation of an official plan for the townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden.

Lehman explained that the flood line mapping had been carried out using two sets of criteria. The first was the one in one hundred year flood which is based on weather records. The second criteria were obtained from a weather event in Timmins in northern Ontario. The rainfall which occurred during that storm is, by computer model, introduced to the local situation to determine the impact.

In both cases, the assumption was made that reservoir lakes upstream from Minden would be unable to contain any additional water and that the control dams would be useless.

Lehman noted that the flood line for both occurrences was very close together.

He noted that the bridge at main street was the first major constriction in the flow of water in the case of a flood. This would cause the water to build up until spilling over the banks resulting in flooded streets and basements. A second constriction in the river exists just south of the sewage treatment plant and it would result in flooding south of the bridge.

The consultant pointed out that the nature of the flooding would generally be still water rather than torrential or rampaging.

"It was just 30 years ago that the provincial government realized the need for controls on flood plain development," Lehman told the audience. "At that time Hurricane Hazel roared through the southern portion of the province causing millions of dollars damage." He said that initially the controls imposed by the province froze all future development on flood plains. He noted that the regulations at that time did not allow for compensation for affected property owners.

Since then, the province has introduced amendments to those regulations which recognize that serious financial and social disruptions could occur in the strict enforcement of the regulations. Lehman noted that in some flood prone communities, development is allowed to proceed, but certain flood-proofing steps must be taken in construction, to help reduce the damage a flood could cause.

The consultant said that the municipality has applied for, and been granted, a temporary special policy area (SPA) status for the zone adjacent to the river. This will be in place until the official plan and amended zoning bylaw are enacted, probably not until 1986. At that time the SPA status

The shaded area indicates the portions of Minden which would be flooded based on the recent study undertaken in conjunction with the municipality's official plan. According to the municipality's consultant, the level of flooding experienced in the spring of 1983 was a foot and a half below the maximum level which could be expected. The flooded areas indicated on this map are approximate. A precise delineation of the flood prone areas will be available at the municipal office in the near future.

areas which would be affected by flooding if further development was allowed in the flood prone could become a permanent fixture with provisions in the zoning bylaw which would require floodproofing for new construction in that area.

Lehman also presented a map showing the additional areas. He said that 40% of the land in the area is undeveloped, and that further construction would reduce the flow of water, spreading the impact of any flood and increasing the depth of water in the area already flooded.

Part of the municipality's study into the flood zone includes an investigation of the impact capital works, such as dredging or widening of the river, would have on the details presented Thursday evening. These calculations have yet to be completed.

"The council is currently exploring ways to allow construction to continue without having the impact of a flood spreading farther," he told the meeting. Lehman advised anyone considering construction to raise the level of their lot and to ensure that basement windows are at least a foot above the flood level indicated for their particular location.

A second public meeting is planned for next spring which time policies for development in the flood prone areas, and possible capital works projects on the river are to be presented.

The end of summer brings a lot of changes besides the obvious ones associated with the weather. Although the official first day of autumn is September 22, for most Americans it begins with Labor Day which is the first Monday of September.

In Minden, school starts about the last week of August but in most areas of the U.S. the traditional first day of school is the day after Labor Day. The swimming pool also closes with the opening of school. This can be unfortunate since there is often very hot weather after school is in session. This year, a great many of our area schools closed early every day the first week of classes due to the extreme heat.

September also means that the county fairs are over and the 4-H Club exhibitors who won the highest awards on the local level, have moved on to compete for ribbons at the state fair. This year, as in years past, the Minden entries brought home a large share of awards from the state fair.

Reading the Minden, Ontario, Times serves to remind us of the many similarities between our towns. We shared the confusion of having streets resurfaced this past summer. It is doubtful that you got into the argument about paying the bill that we did, but our difficulties seem to be settled now.

The news of the wage negotiations with your teachers was enlightening. Our Board of Education is still negotiating with the teachers but we are fortunate to have our faculty still teaching while deliberations continue.

The Minden Public Schools began their first week of school with 808 students. Last year the official enrolment was 819. For the past seven years the school-aged population in this district has averaged a loss of 32 students per year.

There is a movement gaining momentum in Minden to build a community centre. For several years local senior citizens have been meeting in a building that is crowded and has inadequate kitchen facilities. A committee has visited several other communities and discovered that most towns of Minden's size and smaller have a moderately new facility for seniors and that most centres are so well attended that they need expansion.

Although the senior citizens have taken the initiative in a fund raising campaign, it is hoped that if the new facility becomes a reality, it will truly be a community centre, available to all ages. The Minden City Council has already agreed to have the building located in one of our city parks.

An unusual quiet has settled over the countryside at night since the farmers have shut down their irrigation pumps in preparation for corn picking which can't be very far away. Those who plant winter wheat are already stirring up clouds of dust as they plant in the very dry soil, secure in the knowledge that the autumn rains will soon arrive.

Another annual September event is a large farm exposition in nearby Grand Island, known as Husker Harvest Days. Although past shows have seen foreign exhibitors as well as many foreign visitors, this year was the first time a foreign government sponsored exhibitors.

A special area was set aside at the site for the Canadian government, which sponsored 15 Canadian companies exhibiting at the show. Alan Anderson, trade commissioner for the Canadian Consulate General, Minneapolis, Minnesota, says Canada is a major exporter of farm equipment.

Anderson says that up to now the market for Canadian farm equipment has been confined mainly to the northern United States. By exhibiting in Nebraska at Husker Harvest Days, manufacturers hope to open the market in the Central, Western and Southern Great Plains.

Canadian farm equipment manufacturers enjoy a reputation for providing high quality, serviceable equipment to Canadian farmers who, because of the shortness of the season, can't afford delays in obtaining service or parts when their equipment breaks down.

The Canadian Government has agreed to exhibit at Husker Harvest Days for the next 3 years. Following is a list of Canadian manufacturers who exhibited at this year's show:

Manufarm Specialties, Ltd., Wheatley, Ontario; Holland Equipment, Ltd., Norwich, Ontario; Ralph McKay (Canada) Ltd., Regina, Saskatchewan; Beline Mfg., Ltd., Kindersley, Saskatchewan; Fairford Industries, Ltd., Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan;

Schulte Industries, Ltd., Englefeld, Saskatchewan; Leon's Mfg. Co. Ltd., Yorkton, Saskatchewan; Schuh

Provincial and municipal politicians were in attendance Wednesday for the official opening of the Staunworth Court Senior Citizens' apartment complex in Minden. Ontario Housing Minister Claude Bennett, centre, along with Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins, officiated at the ceremony. Also taking part in the ribbon cutting, were, from the left, Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis, John and Corrine Arsenault, the building managers, Claude Bennett, John Eakins, chairman of the Housing Authority Ed Pergolas, county warden Lyle McKnight and Lutterworth Reeve Ron Gambell. Katimavik conference reviews acid precipitation threat

Each year in North America nearly 29 million tonnes of sulphur dioxide and 22 million tonnes of nitrogen oxide is emitted into the atmosphere. After being transformed into sulphate and nitrate particles, they combine with water vapour to form mild sulphuric and nitric acids. These acids are transported by prevailing winds and can fall to earth hundreds of miles away.

The rain that falls on the Haliburton Highlands is 25 times more acidic than normal and the area is one of the most sensitive to the effects of acid rain in North America. In fact, the average precipitation in this county is the most acidic rain that falls in the province. A snowfall that took place around Dorset last winter was 160 times more acidic than normal.

These alarming statistics were presented at a conference that took place in Minden during the weekend.

The two day conference was organized by the seven members of the Minden Katimavik Group and their group leader Chris Niles.

250 Katimavik members representing 20 districts in Ontario and Quebec attended the conference which featured video presentations, panel discussions, slide shows and speeches by representatives of Ontario Hydro, the Ministry of Natural Resources, the Ministry of the Environment and several anti-pollution committees.

In an interesting and informative slide presentation John Casselman of the MNR gave a detailed account of studies that have been conducted on two river systems in Havelock Township. The work is being carried out to determine the alkalinity of lakes that flow into Redstone Lake and Kenissis Lake.

Casselman explained that lakes with high alkalinity are able to counteract the acid that enters the water system from airborne pollution. He noted that limestone deposits can act as a buffer against acid rain.

Casselman also pointed out that metals such as aluminum, zinc, iron and manganese are leached out of the lakebeds by acidic water. The higher the acidity of the water; the higher the concentration of metals.

The study has shown that Havelock lake is the most acidic lake in the system. It is six times more acidic than the nearby MacDonald Lake and contains higher amounts of metals.

Casselman also noted that the fish population of Havelock Lake is abnormally low and the fish are stunted and have physical abnormalities. Casselman estimated that the study will take eight years to complete and should answer many questions about the effects of acid rain on the aquatic environment.

Limestoning

Michael Collins of Gooderham spoke on possible solutions to the problem.

He noted that a significant amount of sulphur dioxide is emitted into the air by coal burning generating plants. He stated that other sources of energy can be used to produce electric power instead of the coal which contains sulphur. He gave as examples, natural gas, solar power, wind and tidal power.

Collins added that "if the provinces could stop squabbling we could have a national power grid" which would eliminate the need for coal burning generating stations.

He said it has been proven that the technology exists to solve the problems, adding "It will take money, interest, determination and initiative." Collins predicted that if sulphur emissions are not eliminated, 30,000 lakes will die in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes within the next 30 years.

Collins also expressed his support to peripheral limestoning projects to save lakes in the Canadian Shield region. He pointed out that similar projects that have been carried out in Sweden have saved thousands of lakes.

- on Eagle Lake three cottages were also broken into. In one instance a door was kicked in while in the other two incidents a sliding door was forced open. The value of the property taken is not known.

As part of the National Crime Prevention Week activities Constable Chapman along with Phil Graham of Minden and Keith Tallman of Wilberforce will be attending a conference in Belleville November 7. The one day meeting will cover a number of aspects of crime prevention. The conference is being organized by the Ontario Solicitor General.

Just in passing

The time has come for the provincial government to intervene in the strike which has closed Ontario's community colleges. Students across the province have been forced to forego their studies for the past three weeks while negotiators for the instructors and the governing body, Board of Regents, spend more time posturing than talking.

What is particularly galling in this instance is the fact that earlier this autumn the provincial government moved with amazing swiftness to head off a transit strike in Toronto even before it happened. In that instance, the strike might have interfered with the size of the crowds anticipated to attend the Papal mass. In this instance, the education of the province's young people is being threatened.

The provincial government of Bill Davis should act now before the students lose the benefit of the year.

Once again Canadians gather under grey skies to pay tribute to those who gave their lives in defence of freedom. Their sacrifice should never be forgotten.

In particular, we, to whom the torch is passed, should realize that these men died, not for the glory or war, but for the preservation of peace. We have inherited their sacred trust, willed to us by their blood...we must honour that trust.

Acid rain just won't go away, although it may fade from the headlines from time to time. The continuing urgency of the problem was brought home to a gathering of young people this past weekend in Minden. The conference, sponsored by the local Katimavik group, attracted over 200 participants and an impressive array of speakers. It's encouraging to see the interest and enthusiasm of the young people.

Congratulations to the board of directors of the Staanworth Nonprofit Housing Authority on the successful completion and opening of their new building. Judging by the comments of the residents and those who toured the building last Wednesday, the two years of work and effort have paid off.

Chairman Ed Pergolas and the representatives of the three townships deserve the appreciation of all concerned.

Remembering

- by Bill Scott, MP -

On November 11th, I will be taking part in several ceremonies in Victoria - Haliburton marking Remembrance Day 1984.

Each year, the number of veterans I see at these ceremonies diminishes. Those missing have joined their fallen comrades who served in the three wars in which Canadian soldiers so gallantly fought. Over six hundred thousand Canadians served in the First World War. More than one million Canadians fought in the Second World War and over thirty-three thousand in the Korean War. The Canadian casualties of these great conflicts are buried in 70 different countries and in the seven seas.

On Remembrance Day, November 11th, 1984, we should stop and reflect upon the great contribution that Canadian soldiers have made in these conflicts and indeed throughout our history. Their contributions have allowed us to preserve our way of life and enjoy this great country of ours today.

To our veterans and their remaining relatives, I salute you in remembrance of the sacrifice that you endured for us. We shall never forget.

Isolated by thundering surf and powerful storms, British Columbia's Queen Charlotte archipelago, has long fixed the imagination of visitors from around the world. Bit by bit this virgin rainforest and marine environment has been parcelled out to the twentieth century. One outstanding conservation opportunity now remains - South Moresby.

The wilderness area takes in the lower portion of Moresby Island and almost 140 smaller islands, as well as some 40 freshwater lakes and a 1,000 mile coast line. It's a naturalists' dream. Flowering plants unique in the world grow here in alpine meadows. Lower down the rugged mountainsides stands of red cedar, sitka spruce, western hemlock and yellow cypress form the lush virgin rainforest which has softened the landscape for 10,000 years.

At water's edge, a whole new world of marine intertidal life opens up. Fully one half of B.C.'s sea lion population inhabits south Moresby, along with one in four nesting birds of the Pacific Coast, Peale's peregrines, and other species in jeopardy, such as trumpeter swans and sandhill cranes. Back on the land a unique pine martin, the world's largest black bear and a number of other mammals have evolved somewhat differently from their mainland relatives. No wonder the Queen Charlottes have been hailed as the "Canadian Galapagos."

War brides find new adventure in Canada

V.E. Day marked the end of six years of conflict in Europe. For thousands of women overseas it also marked the beginning of a new adventure.

They were the War Brides who had married servicemen from the Commonwealth and United States who had been stationed overseas.

Chris Pergolas and Jane Graham of Minden were among the many War Brides who left their families and homes in Scotland and settled in Canada.

In a recent interview both Chris and Jane were quick to point out that they knew the war was inevitable. "We could see that the war was coming," Jane said, adding that as early as 1938 everyone was issued gas masks.

Chris remembers seeing an entire fleet of ships vanish from the harbour at Clydebank near Glasgow. "I guess they had been warned of a possible air raid so they left during the night. In the morning there wasn't a ship left. It was eerie," she said.

The outbreak of the war ushered in a whole new way of life for Chris and Jane.

"I grew up with the war. It became a way of life and I forgot what it was like before the war," Jane related.

They both agreed that they knew Germany would be defeated. "We never thought for a moment that we would lose," Jane said, adding "There was a danger, the threat was there, but we never thought it would happen."

Chris agreed but pointed out that in hindsight, "I suppose they could have done it if they had invaded at the right time and if we had made mistakes."

While Scotland remained relatively unscathed, there were air raids on Clydebank and Glasgow and German planes were frequently seen overhead.

Like most young people, Chris and Jane registered for service but they were never called up.

Many of their friends, however did serve and were killed in action. As part of her job in the Post Office, Jane was required to type out telegrams notifying families of the deaths of her friends. "I knew them and I knew their people. In one family three were gone in two months," she said.

Chris noted that "It seemed whenever there was a funeral service, two more were gone."

She spoke of one friend who had sent Christmas cards to his friends and family back in Scotland. "The cards arrived at the same time as his death notice. He had sent them before he was shot down."

During the war many Canadian servicemen were stationed in Scotland. When asked of her first impression of the Canadians, Jane said that even though the style of the Canadian uniforms was the same as the British servicemen, "You could tell right away they were Canadian because they had nice, fine material for their uniforms compared to the rough material the British wore."

Chris added, "I think they were more happy-go-lucky. I guess it was because they were away from home."

Jane agreed, adding "They were young too and I guess it was a big adventure for them."

She added however, "A lot of bad things happened to them; a lot of terrible things, but they seemed to put them aside."

"Even the ones who were on air raids all the time could put the bad memories away. Maybe it came back to haunt them in later life, but they only talked about the good times."

The Canadian servicemen would gather at an overseas club and it was during a dance at one of those clubs that Chris and Jane met their future husbands.

In 1943 Chris married Ed Pergolas and sailed to Canada on her own in 1945. Ed followed six months later and in 1948, her family moved to Toronto.

Recalling her arrival in Canada after six years of war Chris said "The first thing I noticed when I arrived in Halifax was the lights. It was so marvellous to see so many bright lights." Chris noted that although many of the War Brides became homesick, she never did.

Jane Graham and Chris Pergolas reminisce as they leaf through a collection of wartime photographs.

Jane met her husband Phil while he was serving with the Air Force. It wasn't until after the war that they were married in Canada.

Thinking back to her arrival in Canada Jane said "One of the impressions that I got when I arrived here was that there was so much of everything compared to back home, even though people here were on rations."

She added, "Everything was so new and different. We were fascinated with the differences. It was such an adventure that it was a year or so before I got homesick.

Jane joined a War Brides club in Haliburton after her arrival. "There were about 15 of us. We used to meet once a month but as time went by we got more involved in our own circle of friends and the Canadian way of life and we stopped meeting."

Chris visited Scotland after an absence of twenty years. She related how "It seemed different. Yet in other ways it was as if it hadn't changed at all. I had a great reception from my old friends but I wouldn't want to stay there."

Jane has returned a number of times. "The first time I returned, after five years, they were still on rations," she said, adding "Each time you go back there are changes."

Even though Chris and Jane are thousands of miles from Scotland, they will be thinking about the friends who died during the war. "You do think about the people, about the ones who are gone," Jane said.

Chris agreed and in a voice that, like Jane, still retains a Scottish accent, said "Yes. There were so many of them."

But stronger powers are lined up against them and the Islands Protection Society, which leads the conservation campaign.

Tree farm licence no. 24 held by Western Forest Products Limited covers virtually all of south Moresby. Mineral staking continues without restriction. And the Bennett government's four land use planning options for the area, on which a decision could be taken any day, all allow for resource exploitation.

It's more than a two way battle. Former federal Environment Minister Charles Caccia proposed a fifth option, involving a national park, which would have assured more complete protection and provided compensation for resource rights foregone. Incredibly, it was rebuffed by the province. Whether his successor, Suzanne Blais-Grenier, will renew the offer is unknown.

We must work together as a community to gain our share of the tourism market."

We have a widely dispersed permanent population of about 12,000 that swells to 30,000 as our seasonal residents arrive and doubles to 60,000 plus as transient tourists join us to enjoy the getaway country experience.

As an area generally, our marketing attempts to date have been fragmented at best, with no concerted effort toward a co-operative, effective marketing plan, that would include the whole of the area.

Realizing that tourism is the one industry in the county, and to capture our fair share of Ontario's tourist trade, it is clear that our marketing efforts must swing into step with other areas.

The objective that will be placed before the Chamber marketing committee this week include the following goals:

A - To heighten the public awareness of the impact that tourism has on our local economy.

B - To encourage co-operation amongst businesses and organizations catering to the tourist trade.

C - To encourage municipal support and participation in our tourism marketing plan.

Acid rain conference

The program would involve placing crushed limestone on the edge of lakes in the winter months. The limestone would sink to the bottom of the shores of the lakes in the spring and the wave action would dissolve the limestone, thus helping to neutralize the acid in the water.

He explained that it has been estimated that the project would cost $50,000,000 but suggested that this cost was insignificant compared to the billions of dollars of damage that is caused each year to crops, forests and wildlife by acid rain.

He predicted that if acid rain is not stopped "The entire country except for an industrial area around Toronto and Montreal, will become a wasteland."

Sonya Holliday-Rhodes of the Haliburton County Anti-Pollution Committee told the conference that because it will probably take years to put emission controls in place, the committee recommends winter peripheral limestoning programs.

"Limestoning is not the cure," she said, "But a necessary treatment when time is of the essence." She stated that the program was necessary to ensure the continued survival of fish in lakes that are affected by acid rain.

The speaker noted that the proposed limestone program has been supported by various Lake Associations, Lutterworth Council and the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce.

Holliday-Rhodes was critical of the indifference of politicians in Haliburton County. "When I look to the Muskokas and see their involvement and achievements even though their involvement followed ours, I wonder why we have been so complacent. As a holiday area we stand to lose revenue also."

Muskoka mayor

Sheila Hatch the Mayor of Muskoka Lakes and chairman of the Acid Rain Committee in Muskoka spoke of some of the work her committee has done in the past and offered advice on methods of dealing with the problem of acid rain. "We know the cure to the problem. What goes up must come down," she said, adding "The air is not the place to dump our garbage." She warned the Katimavik members that although the people in the Muskoka-Haliburton region support restrictions of sulphur dioxide emissions, people in the coal mining districts in the United States oppose these measures because of fears that jobs will be affected along with the area's economy.

She suggested that the young people at the conference should:

1. Understand the phenomena thoroughly; 2. work diligently to inform others; 3. develop a policy statement and a community consensus; and 4. vote thoughtfully and encourage others to vote for those who support efforts to curb acid rain.

Hatch expressed some pessimism about government efforts to solve the problem. She noted that at one time federal and provincial governments were predicting that emissions would be significantly reduced within a year or two. "Now they are saying it won't happen until 1994," she said, adding, "We are being written off."

Change the system

In a folksy and at times irreverent address, Richard Thomas, farmer, inventor and former political candidate suggested that the problems of acid rain can only be solved by a complete reform of society and our monetary system.

He was critical of a system which depends on overconsumption and overproduction. "To continue the system" he said, "We have to plunder and waste."

He added that by polluting our atmosphere we are violating the laws of nature and to do so "We are tried and condemned in the inevitable, beautiful, deadly laws of nature itself."

He suggested that we should change our concept of profit to mean careful management of resources to make things go as far as possible. "By increasing the efficiency of the system we can eliminate waste," he said.

He pointed out that to change the system as it exists would take the same amount of energy and technological change as has occurred in the past 900 years.

Thomas added "As critical and serious as acid rain is, in terms of what will happen in terms of the next ten years, it is minor," he said adding that experts have predicted serious food shortages in North America within the next decade due to crop losses caused by soil erosion and pollution.

Quoting Albert Einstein who said "Our wealth is energy" Thomas suggested that our monetary system should be based on available energy. He noted that Canadians use more units of energy than anyone else in the world and that people in Ontario use more energy than other Canadians.

By basing currency on available energy Thomas said "We would then have to conserve and learn to use energy wisely. We would have to change. It would force us to change our role in the environment." He added, "I don't know if the system would solve all the problems but it would set us in the right direction."

When the conference was in the planning stage, group leader Chris Niles said that the purpose of the gathering was to "Make a meaningful contribution to solving the problem of acid rain. Making more people aware of the problem and making sure they understand the problem is the best way to help solve it."

Judging from what went on for two days in Minden this past week the conference has to be judged a success.

As the participants drove home in a steady rain on Sunday they could reflect on what they had learned knowing too that they were leaving an area that can boast of having some of the most acid rain in the country.

Why the home on the left shouldn't be heated like the home on the right.

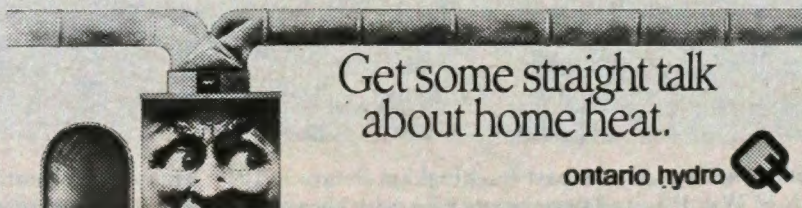

On the left? Bill and Kim, the twins, baby Sarah. They've revitalized their furnace with an electric plenum heater; it's one of the most economical ways to cut winter fuel bills. And they've turned the drafty old attic room into a warm nursery with insulation and inexpensive, easy-to-install baseboard heaters. There's a separate thermostat, so baby's room can be kept at exactly the right temperature without overheating the rest of the house.

On the right? Mike and Stella-empty-nesters. They've installed an add-on electric heat pump to help save money and heat their home in winter and they're looking forward to the comfort of air conditioning next summer. It was easy to add, cuts their heating costs and adds to the value of their home.

Electric heat provides homeowners with many options for either total or partial conversion. Whatever your needs, there's an electric system that's just right to help you cut costs, without cutting corners on comfort. Once you understand the flexibility of electric heat, other heats just don't look so hot.

Memories: 40 years after D-day

Forty years is a long time. But, when Tony Samarillo of Carnarvon returned to France this past June, he found the four decades which had passed since his last visit had not dimmed his memory.

"I stood on the beach (Juno) and the tears started to well up in my eyes," the veteran of World War Two recalled, "there were just too many memories."

Tony was one of many Canadians who made the return visit to the beaches of Normandy this past June to mark the fortieth anniversary of the D-Day landing. Hosted by son Keith of Toronto, the two visited the many historical sites associated with the allied advance into Europe in 1944, took part in the numerous ceremonies and found some of the locations where Tony had been 40 years ago.

Tony was part of the Fourth Battalion Engineers, Second Division. He recalls that prior to enlisting, it was a matter of selecting the right door. "A couple of us decided to enlist and went to the Navy recruitment office, but they had all the men they needed. We then went to the Air Force office but you had to be a Philadelphia lawyer to understand the paperwork there. Then we went to the Army recruitment station. There was one door to the left and one to the right. I took the one to the right and ended up with the engineers. My friend took the other door and joined the tank corps."

His choice of doors proved to be the right one, for prior to enlisting Tony had worked for a number of years as a bricklayer. The experience stood him in good stead with the engineers. Following basic training in Canada they headed off to England in 1940. This was to be their home until D-Day. During the four years in England they were constantly involved in training exercises, honing their skills and abilities. "We spent a lot of time building hospitals," Tony commented. He was a sergeant by then, "I estimate that my company laid some three and a half million bricks while we were in England."

The training also included instruction on Bailey Bridge construction, defusing mines and booby-traps.

His battalion crossed the English Channel five days after D-Day, June 12, to provide support services for the troops fighting on the ground. As a member of an assault engineer division, Tony often found himself working near the front lines.

His group's main effort was the construction of bridges to replace those destroyed in the fighting or by the retreating German troops. "We were responsible for constructing the bridges so the infantry and light vehicles could push ahead. Later these bridges would be reinforced or replaced to allow the heavier traffic to advance."

One of his first bridge building efforts took place near Caen, France. "The infantry had advanced inland and after we landed we followed quickly to erect a bridge over the Orne River. We were working under fire, and it was the first time I came face to face with a German soldier. While the construction was continuing we came under fire so I dived in a nearby bomb crater only to find it was already occupied by a German soldier. He had been wounded and was hiding in the hole." The soldier later died.

One of the biggest projects Tony was involved in was the construction of an 1875 foot pontoon Bailey Bridge on the Rhine River. Known by the troops as the Black Friar's Bridge, it was one of the longest constructed during the war. While finishing the construction of the structure, Tony met two acquaintances. "The first person I met was a former elementary school teacher from Adam Beck School in Toronto. He was laying telephone lines on our bridge when we met." The second meeting was even a greater reunion.

"While we were working on the bridge, our artillery was providing covering fire. During a break, I met one of those manning the big guns, my brother Albert. We had an opportunity to chat for a few hours then parted company. We never met again until the war ended."

Moaning Minnie

Working under fire was of course not an easy task. Tony recalls that the most feared of the German artillery weapons was an 88 mm gun called the "moaning Minnie". The gun was extremely accurate and highly mobile. "They could put a shell in your back pocket," Tony said. The name of the gun came from the noise the shell made as it approached the target area.

While the biggest portion of his time was taken up with bridge construction, Tony was also involved in mine fields and booby trap clearing. "The most common mine we encountered was the Teller mine. We would locate it with a mine detector, find the head and remove the detonator." He noted that sometimes you had to be careful because the enemy would bury one mine on top of another, in order to catch the unwary.

His most vivid memory of mine clearing occurred at the airfield in Calais. The Germans had buried bombs, which had been intended to be dropped from planes, on the runway, with the detonating tip up. He recalls when the first bomb was located and the earth cleared away from around the tip so the cap could be removed, he looked around and found himself alone in the middle of the airfield. The other members of his company and others in the area had cleared out.

Mine clearing was a nerve wracking experience, "but after a while you get used to it," he said.

Tony travelled to various parts of Europe with his company during the war, building bridges and defusing mines and booby traps in many locations. He was headed for Berlin when the war ended.

"I was sent to Amsterdam to await my return to England. While there I met another brother, Orlando, who was on leave as well." After three months he was returned to England, and because of his length of service, was high on the list of soldiers returning to Canada.

Contracting company

His training during the war stood him in good stead. Back in Toronto he started a general contracting company involved in masonry work. He later sold his share in that firm and worked as a supervisor with the Bailey Bridge Company.

His work with the company took him to all parts of Canada, especially the more remote regions, erecting bridges for roads, mines, oil companies and governments. When Hurricane Hazel roared through southern Ontario, Tony's abilities were even more in demand as communities attempted to recover from the damage of the storm. He was even involved in the construction of the Bailey Bridge which was built in Minden when the present span across the Gull River was being repaired and upgraded.

It was a memory filled return trip to France for Tony Samarillo this past summer. It was especially significant because he had not been back since 1944-45 and because he could share the moment with his son Keith.

"Forty years later I found that Norman beach without difficulty. The beach has changed of course, but the huge white house (the house which figures so prominently in the movie The Longest Day) is still there. Tears came to my eyes as I looked over the area ... I was very surprised, touched and proud, to see all the monuments erected on the beach by the French and to find many of the locations preserved intact ... at the ceremonies on Utah Beach I found it very touching to see American, French and German veterans sharing memories while embracing each other."

Second win for Minden Juveniles

The Minden Juveniles skated to their second win of the season on Sunday afternoon as they defeated Manvers 7-3. They won their season opener on October 28 against Powasson by a score of 8-5.

On Sunday the Manvers team racked up 47 minutes in penalties which did little to help their cause. In contrast, Minden was assessed only 22 minutes in penalties.

Less than one minute into the game Lennie Johnson opened the scoring on an unassisted goal. Halfway through the first period he added a second goal on an assist from Barry Boice. Chris Laporte capped off the first period with a goal assisted by Lennie Johnson.

Shayne Yateman increased Minden's lead early in the second period. Assists went to Scott Hamilton and Barry Boice.

Boomer Stamp put Minden ahead by five goals three minutes later. Chris Laporte scored his second goal of the game to end the period with Minden ahead 6-0. Assists went to Scott Hamilton and Barry Boice.

Minden continued to dominate the opposition early in the third period. After assisting on three goals Barry Boice scored one of his own on an assist from Scott Hamilton. Ten seconds later, goalie Kevin Smith's shutout ended when Manvers scored their first goal. Before the end of the game they added two more unanswered goals but it was too little or too late and Minden had a 7-3 victory.

The Minden Juveniles take to the road for the first time this season when they travel to Sunderland on Friday, November 9.

Scott Hamilton and Lennie Johnston battle for position as the puck hangs suspended in front of the Manvers' goalie. The action took place during the Minden Juveniles win over Manvers Sunday 7-3.

Foamblowers win again

The Rockcliffe Foamblowers proved to be unbeatable as they defeated Hall's Insurance and Hartwick Construction in games played this past week in the Minden Men's Recreation League.

The third game of the schedule ended in a 6-6 tie between Home Hardware and The Times team.

Dave Hartwick and Sig McKeighan led the way for the Blowers in Thursday night's game with three goals apiece. Other goal scorers were Charlie Berube with a pair, Ted Vasey and Tony Stone. Lawrence Lougheed scored the lone Hall's marker.

On Monday the Blowers again showed no mercy as they clobbered Hartwick 11-1. Charlie Berube was the top marksman for the Blowers scoring five goals. Dave Hartwick contributed a hat trick and singles went to Andy Campbell, Sid McKeighan and Dan Brohm. In keeping with a tradition in the league, the game did not end in a shutout. Fraser Rogers put Hartwick on the board halfway through the third period.

The second game on Monday was a more evenly matched contest as the teams played to a 6-6 tie. Dean Hewitt and Joe Mitchell scored a pair each for Home Hardware. Singles went to Dave Crego and Doug Ray. Barry Shaw scored three goals in a row for The Times. Brian Shaw added a pair then scored a timely goal to tie up the game at the end of the third period. Harris Steele rounded out the scoring with a single point.

Season ends for kickers

After remaining undefeated in nine games this season, the Haliburton Secondary School Senior Soccer team was eliminated from the Kawartha Tournament on Thursday in Lindsay.

The Haliburton team, winners of the Kawartha West cup were defeated 3-0 in their first game of the tournament by Kenner Collegiate of Peterborough.

In the consolation round they lost 4-1 to Cobourg West. Dennis McKee scored the only goal for Haliburton on a cross from Jeff Howe.

Coach Glen Scully noted that windy conditions hampered the Haliburton players but commended the opposition teams for their "unbelievable calibre of soccer."

"The loss was a disappointment for the players," he said, "But as a coach, the players from the other teams were a pleasure to watch."

He pointed out that the other teams who took part in the tournament play as a unit all summer in the town leagues and are well prepared for the high school season.

He praised his own players noting that the team has won the Kawartha Cup for the second year in a row and won six of their nine games this season by shutouts.

Variety of musical styles featured at concert

The second annual Haliburton Artists' Variety Evening was, in the words of one of the organizers, "an evening like I have never heard before."

The fund raising concert which took place at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School auditorium, featured an unique blend of experimental and contemporary compositions as well as old favourites.

All of the performers who took part in the show volunteered their time to raise funds for the Help A Village Effort (HAVE) Committee.

The committee was established to assist villagers in third world countries to help themselves through the funding of self-help projects.

A Walk for Wells which took place in the county in June, raised $11,000 toward to the cost of drilling wells in drought-plagued areas of India. The HAVE Committee chairman, Gerry Feltham, is now in India choosing sites for the well drilling operations.

Saturday's concert raised $589 to be used for pumps in those wells. Cathy Kinsman was the master of ceremonies of the concert and performed four of her own compositions.

Cathy is now a professional singer and recording artist and Saturday's concert marked her return to the stage at HHSS.

While she was a student at the school she performed in a number of musical productions.

Her own songs were upbeat and intelligent and demonstrated both her vocal talents and her song-writing ability. She was accompanied by Ken Hadley on bass, Will Sherwood on keyboards and flute and Dick Stouffer who played an assortment of percussion instruments.

The concert was also a homecoming for Dick Stouffer.

The compositions of Dick and Will Sherwood were the most experimental and exotic of the evening.

Based on African and Eastern rhythms the music was at times haunting and melodic, conjuring up visions of far away lands.

Cathy showed her versatility by joining the three musicians in several original compositions.

The skills of the four performers was evident in the fact that they had not performed together previous to Saturday's dynamic performance.

The musical selections of the other two groups who performed that evening provided an interesting contrast in the eclectic program. The Highlands Dixie Band was in fine form as the group presented five numbers including Rock-a-bye Your Baby, When You're Smiling and a rousing version of When The Saints Go Marching In. The members of the group include Charles Brandon on piano, Bill Donnery on drums and Sean Saunders on bass. Also in the group are Glenn Carter on trombone, Ken Hadley on clarinet and sax, Rick Vaughan on trumpet and vocalist John Miller.

These four members returned to the stage after the intermission as the Track Four and blended their voices in four part harmony. Their versions of such favourites as Heart of My Heart, I Don't Know Why and When You Wore A Tulip were melodic and lighthearted and were well received by the enthusiastic audience that filled the auditorium.

The concert ended with a lively version of an African dance that underlined the international flavour of the evening.

Cathy Kinsman performs one of her own compositions during the HAVE concert held Saturday evening in Haliburton. The concert raised almost $600 for well drilling projects in India.

HONDA SNOWTHROWERS

FOR PEOPLE WHO DON'T DIG SNOW.

Snow. That nasty white stuff that gives you blisters and backaches and makes you late for work. Shovel in hand, you could spend another season trying to dig yourself out.

Or you could get to the bottom of a snowfall the sensible way. With a Honda snowthrower.

A quick pull of the cord and it's ready for action, gobbling up drifts with a ferocity no shovel could match. And even though a Honda snowthrower is about 20 times the weight of a shovel, it's much easier to push around because it's self-propelled.

Just put it in gear, aim the discharge chute where you'd like the snow to land, and the snow's as good as gone. Our larger models have track drive, like a tank, to power you over the thickest snow with ease.

Over rough ground or in extra-heavy going you still end up with a nice, smooth job, because you can adjust the snowthrower blade to the ideal height. Best of all, it's a Honda. So it can take a lot of punishment without breaking down. It eats snow but only sips gas. And it runs so quietly, the only reaction you'll get from your shovelling neighbours is envy.

The Honda snowthrower comes in three different sizes, from our 3.5 horsepower model to spruce up city-sized lots, to our 7 horsepower model that'll keep large properties looking spic and span. You're bound to find the perfect fit.

And who knows? When you finally swap your shovel for a Honda, you might just find yourself digging winter.

Edith Allcorn marks her 90th

On Sunday afternoon residents and friends of Edith Allcorn gathered at the Hyland Crest Senior Citizen's Home to celebrate her upcoming birthday.

On Thursday, November 8 Edith will be 90 years old.

In a recent interview with The Times Edith reminisced about her life. Born Edith Russel in 1894, she spent her early childhood in Toronto. Her father was an avid hunter and as Edith recalls "after spending several hunting seasons up here he fell in love with the country. So that was it; we moved up here to live."

That was in 1904 when Edith was 9 years old. The family settled on a farm on the outskirts of Carnarvon.

"It was quite a change moving up here from the city; especially the winters. I found them cruel," Edith said. "It was also quite a change from the city public school to a country school," she added.

Carnarvon was much more isolated at the turn of the century than it is now and trips to Haliburton or Minden could be quite a challenge at times.

"It was before Highway 35 was built and all we had was buggy roads," Edith said, adding that the time it took to reach town "depended on how good your horse was."

In those days automobiles were a rare sight. "We saw the odd one drive through Carnarvon but no one around there owned one then," she said.

She remembers Sir Sam Hughes, then the MP for Victoria Haliburton, arrive at a picnic in Carnarvon in a brand new automobile. She described his arrival as being "quite a show".

Although Sir Sam lived in Lindsay he had a great love for Haliburton County and had a lodge on Eagle Lake where he used to entertain local people and visitors.

"He called this the solid north," Edith said. Edith met Sir Sam some years later when she was returning home from summer school. "I was taking a picture of my school chums on the railway platform in Lindsay. A man stepped forward and offered to take a picture of me and my friends so I could be in the group too. It was Sir Sam," she said. Edith describes Hughes as being "an ordinary man, but one who was very popular."

Besides seeing the end of the horse and buggy era and the introduction of the automobile into society, Edith recalls her first encounter with another modern invention - radio.

"We were in Huntsville at the time and heard that a fellow had set up some speakers downtown. So we went there to listen," Edith recalls adding, "It wasn't long before we had one."

Years later Edith was introduced to television in much the same way. "Simpsons had announced that the public could go and watch a buggy era to the age of jet travel but Edith has taken it all in stride.

Asked if there is any secret to her long life, Edith responded, "No secret. It is an open book."

television on one of the floors in their store in Toronto. It attracted quite a crowd," she said.

Edith is not overly enthusiastic about television. "Before television we had more time to be creative," she said, adding, "It is a hindrance in some ways."

After completing her education Edith taught in a number of rural schools in Haliburton County. Those one room schools became obsolete with the advent of busing and have since vanished.

In 1922 Edith married Alfred Allcorn. They had one son who died tragically of appendicitis at the age of thirteen. Because the family was isolated he was unable to get medical attention in time to save his life.

During the depression Edith and her husband lived in various communities throughout Ontario, travelling to wherever work could be found. "My husband was a stationary engineer. He was quite capable and could always find work, but in those days jobs didn't last long," Edith said, adding, "People were lucky to find work then."

In 1950 the Allcorns bought a house in Haliburton. Edith lived there until she moved to the Hyland Crest Senior Citizen's Home twelve years ago.

Sadly within two years her husband died.

She enjoys living at the Home. "I have settled down. This is my home now. I have lots of friends and my relatives are close," she said. One relative who is not close is her sister who lives near Los Angeles. In 1977 at the age of 83 Edith flew to California to visit her sister.

As Edith explained, "I took a notion to go there one spring and ended up going there three years in a row." It is not only a long way from Minden to California it is a long way from the horse and

Show features six artists

It was a dark and stormy night Thursday, when the Agnes Jamieson Gallery opened its doors on the latest exhibition of art.

The thirty or so brave souls who attended the opening were rewarded with hot cider, home baking and one of the finest collections of art shown at the gallery for some time.

Entitled "Women of the Region" the show featured the works of six artists from the Kawarthas and Haliburton County.

Unfortunately the weather conditions prevented some of the artists from attending but the artistic creations made up for their absence. The collection of paintings, pen and ink drawings and wallhangings proves conclusively that this region is home to some very talented people.

Included in the show are water colours by Sadie Barnes and Maureen Gough, pen and ink drawings and prints by Gwen Kushner, pen and ink drawings, prints and water colours by Marta Scythes, watercolours and batiks by Mary Wallace and weaving and tapestry by Jane Wild.

This is a show of exceptional quality and provides an opportunity for these award winning artists to display their latest creations. In doing so, they offer their own unique and individual interpretation of people and our rural environment.

The opening was well worth attending, storm or no storm and for those who missed it, the exhibition continues until November 24.

The gallery is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Anna Kvist and Corrine Ziorjen study one of the paintings featured opening night at the "Women of the Region" exhibition at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery.

Reaching police after closing

Zenith 50,000

Since the Minden Detachment office is closed from midnight to 8:00 a.m., there is seldom an officer present during those hours to answer in-coming calls. Closing the detachment enables those officers on duty to be on patrol throughout the County rather than tied to the office.

To enable residents to reach police during these closed hours the "Zenith 50,000" program was instituted several years ago. If, anywhere in the province of Ontario, the telephone operator is asked for Zenith 50,000 the call will be connected to the nearest 24 hour detachment. In this area, calls go to Lindsay O.P.P. Detachment where the dispatcher in turn contacts the Minden officer by radio and apprises him of the original call.

To reach Minden O.P.P. Detachment by telephone: Between 8:00 a.m. & Midnight - 286-1431; Midnight & 8:00 a.m. - Dial "O" and ask the Operator for Zenith 50,000.

Wednesday afternoon was a lovely one and we went up to the official opening of Staunworth Senior apartments. After the opening there was a tour of the facility and we were very impressed. Following the crowd to the Community Centre we heard from the officials and all the people who had worked on the project. Congratulations to all who made this possible, you should indeed be very proud.

Freda Stacey took over the Rotary Club bingo last week. She wore the Las Vegas hat and her number kept coming up until she won $100. Elva Deacon was the hesitant winner of a suspicious looking door prize but all turned out well. Elva was pleased to take home a handsome kitchen utensil set.

For all of you who are reluctant to come out for bingo because of the smokers, the Rotary Club informs us that a no smoking section will be in force for the next bingo slated for November 27, so come out and join in the fun.

Mrs. Mary Stiver of Hall's Lake has just returned from Kenora where she was attending a surprise birthday party for her daughter Kathy's 21st birthday. She found it very cold and snowy there - eight inches of snow on Hallowe'en. Hope you had a nice birthday Kathy.

On Saturday, a goodly crowd of people from two to a hundred and two watched the mermaid puppet show at Hyland Crest Auditorium. For those who saw this it was very entertaining and they learned how simple puppets may be made at home. This was through the courtesy of the Haliburton County Library System and Minden Public Library. Too bad if your youngster missed this excellent show.

The draw for a stained glass panel sponsored by St. Paul's Anglican Church in Minden was held Saturday evening and the winner was Sheila Mitchell from Burnt River.

Congratulations to Bill Stromberg and Jane Long who were married Saturday November 3 at the Gospel Church by Rev. Everett Wicks. Attendants were Kelly Clendenning and Donald Schlosser. The happy couple will reside in Minden.

Don't forget the free movies for children

November 9 (Friday) at 7:15 p.m. in the Library/Cultural Centre in Minden.

Club 35 card party winners for this Monday were: Most Lone Hands - Shirley Bunker. High Lady was Betty Campbell while the high man (believe it or not) was Greta Alsop! The door prize went to Mervin Bunker while other winners were Mary Schad, Ken Campbell and Velda Harrison.

Don't forget these ladies at Hyland Crest who have birthdays in November. Edith Allcorn, November 8; Margaret Sisson November 11; Olive Tyler November 14; and Jessie Walter and Therm Corby both on November 21. Sincere good wishes to all of you for many more happy birthdays.

Mrs. Gladys Lawson of Bolton spent a couple of days with her mother Annie Miscio. Mrs. Miscio returned to Bolton for a few days to visit with her grand-daughter Debbie, Joe and Nicole.

Friends of Marion Ingram will be sorry as we were to hear that she is at present a patient in Toronto Western Hospital. Marion is having abdominal surgery soon and is in Room 508, Pavilion 5. Best wishes from all of us for a speedy recovery Marion, we'll miss you downtown.

Winners at the card party last Thursday afternoon at the Parish Hall were Lone Hands - Joe Dollo. Other winners were Pearl Cowen, Charles Beharrell, Dora Dawson and Bob Mitchell.

Mike and Bev Jackson are very happy on the arrival of their baby girl Jessica Kate.

Sincere sympathy goes to the families of Bill Dugan, Stan Sawyer, Mrs. Norman Wilbee, Mrs. Fred Harrison, Irie Barry and Mrs. Gwen Musclow. Our hearts go out to all of the families who are left to mourn their passing.

We welcome the Drysdals back Saturday night to look after the games and that everything goes right.

We welcome Carrie back to our location after undergoing a serious operation. Fred & Beth Parker came too, to help out you know. We don't play for money, you know, but they brought along a tape that was really funny. It's always busy on weekends here about. Relatives coming in to visit, others going out.

We were sorry to miss chapel service Sunday night. Please don't book me as a sinner. Our son came along with his father-in-law and we three went out to dinner.

We welcome Helen Lee back after a week's holiday. Things are rather quiet when Helen is away.

Monday morning down at fun & fitness where we played games galore. Teddy Carr by knocking down the most bowling pins, made the highest score.

We had our auxiliary meeting Monday night, October 29. Always meet once a month, to keep everything in line. Our auxiliary President Aileen Blears has retired at the end of 1984, but we all think it's nice that she's staying on as President Vice. Grace Coburn is our new President for 1985. We are sure she'll make a good one, very much alive.

Stan Blears looks after the financial part and does a good part too. I would like to tell my readers what we do with some of the $100-to buy new Christmas decorations for this place, $600 to buy Christmas presents for all residents here, bring some Christmas cheer and a smiley face. Look after the tuck shop each week for 5 days, help out here at Hyland Crest in many different ways.

I would also like to say our auxiliary secretary is Wanda Cater, keeps the books right up to date and there's one not any smarter. Then there is Carrie Drysdale she does a good job too, makes sure we all pay up when our membership came due.

We would like to thank Rev. John James from the Haliburton United Church for coming to our chapel today, bringing a very interesting message from Psalms 90 before he went away. Fred Ballard came again the music to play. Doris showed us movies Tuesday afternoon. A real interesting show, "The Commonwealth Arts and The Brooms of Mexico. Tuesday night the Cox's came, Allan and wife Lyndell, the way they entertained us really was quite well. Allan plays nice music and they sing so well together. Allan is a grandson of Annie Cox and a brother of Wayne. This is the first time they have come to us. Please come back again.

The Brownies serenaded all dressed up for Hallowe'en, some wearing costumes of different colours, others wearing green.

Well, Hallowe'en is over for another year. The costumes some of the residents appeared in were really good. Lilly Hogg won third prize, Wilbert Sisson won second and first went to Amelia Good. Members of the staff who dressed up in costume, really was a sight. First place was won by our own Arnie Wright. The Haliburton ladies of St. Anthony Catholic Church came down this November day, with lots of lovely sandwiches, cookies, tea, coffee, and soft drinks. We thank them for coming, what could we ask for more. We thank the bingo callers who came each Thursday night, much pleasure they do bring. This week it was Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Deacon and Murry King.

IN MEMORIAM

BUNKER: Olive Audrey - In loving memory of a dear Mother and Grandmother who passed away six years ago, October 28, 1978.

Just as she was, she will always stay
Loved and remembered every day
Her loving smile, her gentle face
And the many things she did for us
In her kind and loving way.

Her life was unselfish,
For others she lived
Not for what she received
But for what she could give.

So treasure her God
In your garden of rest
For in this world,
She was one of the best.

Sadly missed by sons and daughters, Faye, Jack, Caroline, Joyce, Harry, Joanne and their families.

IN MEMORIAM

McKAY: In loving memory of a dear sister-in-law Orise McKay who passed away November 13, 1983.

No one knows how much we miss you

No one knows the bitter pain

We have suffered since we lost you

Life hasn't been the same.

She is gone but not forgotten, always remembered by sister-in-law Mary McPhail.

McKAY: In loving memory of a dear nephew James McKay who passed away November 24, 1983.

No one knows how much we miss you

No one knows how much you suffered

Life hasn't been the same Since you left us.

He is gone, but not forgotten, always remembered by Aunt Mary McPhail
